

Make a home escape plan. Draw a map of each level of your home. Show all doors and windows. Go to each room and point to the two ways out. Practice the plan with everyone in your household.

Learn your building's emergency evacuation plan. Make a home escape plan that includes it. Go to each room and the building exits and point to the way out. Practice the plan with everyone in your household.

Teach your children how to escape on their own in case you cannot help them. Make sure they can open windows, remove screens and unlock doors.

Push the test button on your alarm to start the drill. Get low and go to your exit. Close the door as you leave your home. Never go back in for any reason. Meet at your meeting place.

Before opening your door, feel the door with the back of your hand. If it is hot, leave the door closed and use your second way out.

If you cannot get out, close the door and cover vents and cracks around the door with cloth to keep smoke out. Call 911 or your fire department. Say where you are and then signal for help at the window with a light-colored cloth or a flashlight.
